Latin American Revolutions

Name _____ Date _____

1 Recall, then make a connection.

Start from memory. Write a meaning or quick example for each term.

Autonomy	Centralization	Citizenship

Explain how autonomy, centralization, and citizenship describe different political questions. Why could independence leave disputes about the location of power and access to rights unresolved?

Context for the task

Latin American independence movements emerged in varied colonial societies. The crisis of the Spanish monarchy during the Napoleonic Wars interacted with local grievances, political ideas, and struggles over authority. Leaders and communities pursued different aims. The region's revolutions cannot be reduced to one leader or a single date.

2 Organize the records.

Which change is being claimed?

Classify the primary issue in each fictional dispatch.

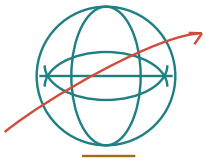

Sort the dispatches.

A. External sovereignty B. Internal participation C. Distribution of authority

Write the category letter beside each record.

1. ___ A territory rejects rule by an overseas crown.
2. ___ A law changes who may vote.
3. ___ Provinces debate powers of a central government.
4. ___ A petition demands political rights for an excluded group.
5. ___ A constitution divides responsibilities between central and regional institutions.

Evidence, application & transfer.

3 Read the evidence closely.

Test the equality claim

A fictional declaration announces independence and claims that every hierarchy has therefore disappeared.

Select all evidence that would directly test that claim.

A. Laws governing citizenship and participation after independence.

B. Petitions from communities challenging continued unequal treatment.

C. The date on a new national flag design.

D. A leader's portrait displayed in a public hall.

Selections: _____ Explain your reasoning:

4 Apply the idea.

The network's final report

Fictional Case A gains independence but retains narrow voting; Case B changes both sovereignty and participation rules.

Which conclusion fits?

A. Political independence and expanded participation can follow different paths.

B. Independence automatically guarantees identical rights everywhere.

C. A change in voting rules makes sovereignty irrelevant.

My choice: _____ Explain why it fits:

5 Carry the idea forward.

Write a network report comparing two dimensions of revolutionary change. Explain one connection between European events and local movements, and identify the evidence needed to judge outcomes for an excluded group.
